

Pledge to Let Bluefin Tuna Off the Hook

Bluefin tuna, one of the world's most remarkable ocean creatures renowned for its strength and mighty speed, is in trouble and urgently needs our help.

Overfishing is driving this magnificent fish toward the brink of extinction, and yet many sushi restaurants continue to serve it.

To save the species, I'm joining the Center for Biological Diversity in a boycotting bluefin tuna sushi and restaurants that sell bluefin in order to raise awareness about its plight and to help shut down the consumer demand for this critically imperiled fish.

I pledge to stem the consumer demand for bluefin tuna by:

- not eating bluefin tuna;
- boycotting any restaurant that has bluefin tuna on its menu.
